Our first day of the new work week fell on a Sunday, and the calls for service were not very heavy. Officers used some of the down time to complete previous follow-ups needed. During this shift, an officer was flagged down by a female who located a juvenile on the street by himself. He told her that he was abused at his home, so she brought him to the police department. Officers discovered that his family did not know he was out of the home. It turned out that he was disciplined for starting a fight with his sister. After he was disciplined, he left the home. He was returned to his family after the officers determined that no abuse had occurred. Officers also made several warrant arrests and narcotics arrests.

MISC. INFO:

Officers responded to a call of a male smoking narcotics in a parking lot. When they arrived the male took off running. After officers located him a short distance away, he was searched for his probation status and found to have drug paraphernalia. He was arrested and booked for resisting arrest. an officer investigated a report of a rape. A woman reported her husband forced her to have unwanted anal sex. The male denied the allegations and claimed it was consensual. A judge granted a temporary restraining order and the male was arrested due to the female stating she had pain and was bleeding from the incident. A sexual assault exam is pending at the hospital, and the victim was taken to a hotel by victim sevices. While doing extra patrol on foot, an officer contacted two people in a field who were illegally camping. One of the parties was restrained from the other. He was arrested and booked in jail.
